Carroll, started for his factory. Just as the pair arrived at the corner of Willow and Oxford street three men closed in behind them. Drawing a blackjack one struck Carroll a terrific blow on the back of the head. policeman staggered and as he went down the other two Yeggs grabbed the satchel from Landregan. But the merchant was game and hung grimly on. Seeing that a fight was imminent the two Yeggs at once opened fire and Landregan dropped dead with three bullets through his head. Carroll, who had joined in the struggle, fell before the pistol of the third robber, with a bullet through his breast and the three, carrying the satchel with them, fled.

Attracted by the firing, scores of people arrived on the spot in an instant and a posse was soon hard on the trail of the robbers who were firing at heads which appeared at windows. They ran to a high ledge, a short distance from the town, which is known as High Rock. They start-ed the climb and with the shouts of their pursuers growing closer, they dropped the bag with the plunder on top of the hill, dodging behind some houses on the other side. Here the trio found a horse belonging to Miss Bessie Baker standing at the curb. One of them mounted the animal and as Miss Baker ran to stop the theft, two of the Yeggs fired point blank at her. She was unwounded but dodged behind fence and the robbers, one mounted the supplementary census carried on and the others holding to the straps,

Just as they passed the Lynn hos-Ital, an auto, with three citizens and of the circus employes hailing from Policeman Arthur Thompson in it, this city, makes 1,361 names added turned the corner and all four opened fire. The Yegg who rode the norse fell dead from the saddle and the others doubling in their tracks, struck across through a clump of houses in an effort to avoid the hail of bullets which now began to fall on all sides. With every policeman in the city and a mob of nearly 500 civilians in close pursuit, the two remaining robbers ran into a swamp in what is known as Pevere's Field and the pursuers at once commenced to surround it. Within a few minutes a single shot was heard from the brush and then the police closed in. Spread out like a fan and taking advantage of every shrub and bush, the bluecoats went through the mud and water of the swamps, guns barking with every step. Shots from the bush an-swered their volleys. After a rush the posse found one of the Yeggs lying dead and the other standing idly ammunition was gone. He was nurried to police headquarters here but he absolutely refused to give an account of himself or say who were his companions. > Rome, June 25-Despite the complications that have arisen in America over the return to Italy of Porter Charlton to answer to the charge of murdering his wife and throwing her body into Lake Como, the Italian Foreign Office is still confident that the youthful slayer will be surrendered. While the Foreign Office officials refuse to give the reason for this belief it is thought that their opinion is based upon information that has come through official channels from United States Ambassador Leishman who is expected to return to Rome today from Lake Como, where he spent many days investigating the murder. As soon as he resumes his official duties here Ambassador Leishman will take up the matter of Charlton's extradition with the Marquis Di Sanguiliano, representing the Italian government. Italian lawyers who have given the matter any thought declare that even if the young murderer is sent back he stands an excellent chance for acquittal on the plea now being favored by his father that he is insane. Even if he should be brought back and found to be sane, the punishment would not be severe as there were no eye-witnesses to the tragedy and Charlton's story that the murder was the result of sudden passion and therefore without premeditation, would permit a nominal sentence of two or three years, When Frank Craig retired, last There is no death punishment in Italy, night, in his room in the Amazon Ho- and the penalty for murders committel in Fairfield avenue, he took a final ted in a frenzy is very light compared mitted with Charlton himself as one of the victims, they would have been able lice is laughed at by Americans here who point out that young Charlton sailed from Genoa on June 9, the day ian police been active, however, they might have had the steamer searched

IS MISTAKEN FOR CEMETERY GHOST

Prize Member of Menagerie Escapes and Reappears in Receiving Vault

Upsets Them at Will and Keeps Freedom Until She Tires Out — Captured by Boys at Last

Burton H. Dorman, superintendent of Mountain Grove cemetery, walked out his back door, at 6:30 this morning and beheld what he for an instant believed to be a spectre standing in the doorway of the big receiving vault to the rear of his home. The door swang closed with a bang as he stood gazing at the apparition. The jar brought the ghostly figure into ful view. With a snort and a flourish of heels, the figure dashed down the hill side like a flash. It proved to be Alice, the prize zebra of Barnum & Bailey's menagerie, who had escaped from the train at the Iranistan avenue siding as the circus was being loaded up at midnight. Dorman knew nothing of the animal's escape, but he readily surmised whence the animal had come. He hurried into his house, telephoned to police headquarters of his find, then went out to the cemetery to keep watch over the wanderer. Alice had one grand time. are 21 laborers employed in the cemetery. They start work at 7 o'clock Fifteen of them had gathered when Dorman came from the phone, and with him as the commander they formed a cordon around the animal It was like the good old game of Bull-in-the-Ring with Alice for the Bull. She charged wildly hither and yon, breaking up the line of men surrounding her at will and sending them sprawling over the grass before they could snatch the halter that angled from her neck. Prancing over the graves, bound-ing over tombstones, tearing up the turf, and shooting out her heels like Cliff Berzac's mule, Maud, she soon had the workmen completely terrified. They pursued her at a safe distance across the grass, in and out of tombs, and finally to the northeastern end of the cemetery.

Alice doubled in her tracks and charged her pursuers who were being reinforced from time to time by new arrivals. They fled in haste, and left her a clear field. She galloped blithely down to the edge of the lake and with a parting snort of defiance dashed through an opening in the fence into Dewey street. That was the last seen of Alice antil about 10 o'clock she reappeared in Black Rock, near Ash Creek. A crowd of boys took after her, and tiring the creature out thoroughly. seized the halter and led her back in triumph to the Winter quarters. Alice is the largest zebra in captivity, in America, and is one of the most highly prized members of the Barnum & Bailey family. She will be crated and shipped to Gloversville to rejoin the show on Monday.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED AT UNION HOTEL

Brewery Which Supplies Edward Farrell Holds Place with Keeper

Business is suspended at the Union Hotel, on Water street, until the proprietor Edward Farrell can rid himself of his financial difficulties. Some time ago Alexander C. Poland, agent for the brewery which supplies Farrell with his beverages obtained judgments in the Common Pleas court for $1,675. When these judgments were not satisfied Poland, through his counsel, Attorney Alexander L. De-Laney, put a judgment lien on the property, ousting Farrell from the premises. After the eviction, Farrell's counsel obtained a temporary injunction from Judge Carl Foster of the City court, restraining the sheriff from keeping Farrell out of his saloon. A few days later, Judge Foster dissolved the injunction, the attachment holding. This was about three weks ago, since which time the place has been in the hands of a keeper. Only yesterday Farrell was served with papers in another suit, brought by Poland, for $50.

DEEDS PASS TO HER FOR 75 ACRES OF FINEST RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY IN THIS VICINITY

Property Was Purchased by Clapp Spooner 60 Years Age -Portion of Original Tract Occupied by Brooklawn Club—Twenty Acres Sold to Miller & Jordan

Miss Lilly T. Spooner became today discussed for some time past the owner of the largest single tract of residential property in this vicinity. Deeds were exchanged whereby she purchased from the estate of her father, the late Clapp Spooner, who was Mayor of this city in 1863, 75 acres of property on the west side of Brooklawn avenue and just south of the Brooklawn Club. Frank T. Staples, as trustee of the Spooner estate, has been developing the property this spring. It has been laid out with croad winding drives, walks, and granite retaining walls at the entrance. The residences will occupy the tract with a terraced effect and the property is said to be one of the most ideal residential sections in this section. The property was purchased 60 years ago by Clapp Spooner who named it Brooklawn. Mr. Spooner set out many of the handsome trees now standing on the land. He laid out the property as a residential park and the work which Miss Spooner will take up in developing the land is practically the same laid down by her father at the time of his death. It is the intention of the owner give the Brooklawn Club a right of by her father. She is now way through the property in case the in devel top of Brooklawn Hill as has been city.

BUILD BARNUM AVE.

TROLLEY EXTENSION Captures Also Contract to Build Mile of New Road

MAYOR MAHAN WILL

In East Broadway Engineer C. C. Elwell of the Connecticut Co. announced today that the contract for the construction of the extension of the Barnum avenue trolley lines from Mill Hill avenue this city to Main street had been let to Bryan F. Mahan, mayor of New London for a sum said to be about $48,-000. Mr. Mahan is to construct the track work and the road work for the company. The road work will be in accordance with specifications furnished by State Highway Commissioner McDonald. It was announced today that Mayor Mahan had captured another big contract in Stratford and will build a mile of new roadway for the state and the town in East Broadway and will rebuild the street car line there from Washington Bridge to Stratford center. At present the rails of the company are on the east side of the road. They will be replaced in the center of the street. The new roadway will be 35 ft. in width. Nineteen feet will be built by the Connecticut Co. and 16 ft. by the State and town of Stratford together.
